

INTERESTS OF WESTERLY

Chief Cottrell's Brother Dies at Cranston—Officers of South County Poultry Association—Carroll Jaeger III in Virginia—Fire at State College.

Thomas Vail Cottrell, who was born in Westery nearly 64 years ago, and who resided here continuously up to within six months, when he removed to Cranston, died Tuesday. He had been in failing health for the past two years, and his death occasioned no surprise. Mr. Cottrell had a varied business career and of late years he was in the upholstery business as well as being a public auctioneer. He was a son of Mr. and Mrs. Russell Cottrell, and was married to Mrs. Thomas Vail, a former rector of Christ Episcopal church, Westery, subsequently bishop of Kansas. The deceased was a brother of Samuel J. Cottrell, chief engineer of the Westery fire department, and of Mrs. Edwin A. Lewis.

The Pawcatuck river is now free of ice, for navigable purposes, except at a point between Barn Island and Osbrook grove, where the ice extends across the channel, but through which a passage could be made by steamer. Westery, which is now ready for commission, ready to go down the river and tow up two coal laden barges, as soon as their arrival is reported at Stonington. The steamer Westery went into winter quarters January 1, not by reason of ice in the river, but because there was an end to river towing business for the winter, the orders of coal dealers and those in other lines of business that came to Westery by water route having been delivered for the balance of the winter season.

Captain Frank H. Robinson has made more trips up and down the river, but than any man living. He is in command of the new steamer Westery, and was in charge of the old steamer of the same name. Every coal laden barge that comes up the Pawcatuck river is towed by the steamer Westery, and with Captain Robinson as the guiding power in the pilot house. While many cargoes of 500 tons of coal have been carried in the barges, the largest cargo ever towed to Westery was 700 tons. No man living has a knowledge of the Pawcatuck river navigation equal to that of Captain Robinson.

Senator Louis W. Arnold of Westery, chairman of the senate finance committee and a member of the Board of Control and Supply, says the Providence Tribune, is one of the most frank-spoken men in the senate. That is saying a good deal, especially when in order to be the champion stickler for cold, hard facts and for telling things which don't sound any too pleasant. He has been in the senate with Senator McKenna of Cumberland and Senator Munroe of Providence.

However, Senator Arnold when he has anything on his chest to be tried in debate, will arise, and in a voice that anyone can hear will say what he has to say and say it in a way that all can understand and then sit down. Sometimes he will make two or three speeches and the faster his opponents come at him the more he likes it.

He is a likable sort of man and a good man for the position he has on the finance committee. He is a republican and has been all his life, but at the same time he is one of those who believe in the things that the democrats believe in and he is apt to vote with them even against his own party at times. In that way he votes as he thinks.

The chauffeur for the Kenyon family of the Kingston town farm lost money in short order in Westery on Wednesday morning.

Wednesday morning. He made a purchase in Nash's, placing the change with the other money in his wallet. He ran across the street to Barber's, and while making a purchase there missed the wallet. He made a rush back to Nash's and reported his loss, and all within two minutes. He is positive that he put the wallet in his pocket after leaving the Nash store, and believes he lost it on the run across the street. At the time the street was practically clear of vehicles and there were but few persons on the sidewalks, and he does not believe the wallet could possibly have been picked up on the street by any one person. The wallet contained about $14.

Some time ago a town ordinance was adopted by unanimous vote of the town council that prohibited overhanging signs from telephones, telegraph or pole lines. That ordinance was aimed at a sign that was located not far from the town hall, and it served its purpose. That particular sign has been removed, and now the ordinance has evidently been placed among the other ordinances that are not enforced, and there are several of them.

JEWETT CITY
D. A. R. Chapter Hears Daniel L. Phillips Tell of Time When Norwich and Preston Dominated Griswold—Valuable Historical Paper.

The regular meeting of Anne Brewster D. A. R. chapter D. A. R. was held Wednesday afternoon in the chapter room in Slater library. The regent, Miss Alice A. Brown, presided. A former member occupied the afternoon and proved most entertaining.

F. D. Ballou sang two solos, Gypsy Love Song and Chimney Corner, and was accompanied by Mrs. G. H. Prior. Daniel L. Phillips read a most instructive and scholarly paper on Griswold in the time of the Revolution. He stated that in 1774 that natural division of the earth's surface, the Quinebaug river, containing the Pachaug valley and its encircling hills, now called Griswold, was divided between two towns, Norwich and Preston. Norwich was second in point of wealth among the towns of Connecticut at that time, and Preston was more the average in point of wealth. The line of division between the two towns runs from the Norwich northeast corner bound at the Hay farm over Cook Hill, by the road past the Armstrong farm to a pole near the mouth of Broad brook, Norwich, Griswold was of very little importance in the town of Norwich, but Preston Griswold contained more than half the wealth and men of influence of the town of Preston.

The towns vied with each other in the spirit of patriotism. Money and provisions from both towns were sent for the relief of Boston during the siege. Although Griswold was divided town-wise it was united ecclesiastically. Rev. Josiah Hart, D. D., was pastor in that parish. He was one of the strongest men, mentally, in Connecticut. He defined liberty in a famous sermon which he preached, which real-ized to a declaration of war against all forms of slavery. This included not only civil, religious and ecclesiastical liberty, but the liberty of the slave and of righteousness in opposition to the bondage of sin. The first effect of this sermon was that in the same year a law was passed by the legislature which did away with the African slave trade in Connecticut.

Mr. Phillips gave many facts and series concerning Enoch Baker, Benjamin Sears, D. D., and "theman" Sears. He referred to the 17 men who gave their lives and whose names are inscribed upon the boulder erected by this chapter in Pachaug. The number of Revolutionary soldiers who went from this town is more than 200, and a large majority have been identified by Mr. Phillips.

At the close of this paper, refreshments were served by Mrs. A. C. Ladd and Miss Martha Brewster, who were the hostesses for this meeting. Several ladies from out of town attended the meeting, as well as a few local visitors. Mrs. George Loring and Mrs. Charles Bragg from Central Village, Mrs. Joseph L. SAVE YOUR HAIR! IF FALLING OUT OR DANDRUFF--25 CENT DANDERINE.

LADIES! MEN! HERE'S THE QUICKEST, SUREST DANDRUFF CURE KNOWN.

Thin, brittle, colorless and scraggy hair is mute evidence of a neglected scalp; of dandruff—that awful scurf. There is nothing so destructive to the hair as dandruff. It robs the hair of its lustre, its strength and its very life; eventually producing a feverishness and itching of the scalp, which if not remedied causes the hair roots to shrink, loosen and die—then the hair falls out fast. A little Danderine tonight—now—anytime—will surely save your hair.

Get a 25 cent bottle of Knowlton's Danderine from any drug store or apothecary, and after the first application your hair will take on that life, lustre and beauty which is so beautiful. It will become wavy and fluffy and have the appearance of abundance, an incomparable gloss and softness, but what will please you most will be after just a few weeks' use, when you will actually see a lot of fine, downy hair—new hair—growing all over the scalp.
